

If you will rearrange the letters in the horizontal rows (the rows that go across) so that they spell four-letter words, you will find you can also spell words vertically (down). Then you will have five connected word squares. The center square has already been worked correctly, as are the words marked with arrows.